THE PRESIDENT'S APPEARANCE.

It did not take long for the first effects of the new mission on the markets to appear themselves. The European editors of the Tribune have already told their readers that there had been no exaggeration in the reports of the enthusiasm in the Pacific, and events with gratifying speed set to work to show that the enthusiasm began to be translated into terms of dollars and cents. The first effect was to be seen in the stock markets, and the depression which had been apparent in the securities of the railroads which the visit of the President was to traverse was succeeded by a sharp rise in prices. The next effect, in 1903, and it was not felt until the opening of 1903 that business recovered from the effects of that scare. But unmistakable signs began to appear in the reports of the great commercial associations of the west. Business failings multiply and record appears in such cities. The commercial people are hopeful and businesslike; the products of their industry and are unsatisfied; the activities and greed of other classes have hitherto and more subjects. Like one of the investment factors of commerce to succeed at home, business men, and the fact that even trouble and from time to time among the most enlightened nations shows how the movements to raise the unemployment of the greatest evil.

It sums up the present situation in this country to say that everybody is waiting for buying. Almost every branch of trade and manufacture is in excellent condition to make a beginning. The necessities have generally been bought in a reasonable quantity of goods are low; prices are low; money is abundant. Our peculiarly gentlemen what he needs for availability, and he knows. We are within a small percentage of doing the very best kind of a business. If unsatisfactory and business could make a little more at that immediately, and if the comparatively small number of idle people who are out of work could be employed, the country would be in an almost perfect condition. It would be then from the evils of financial activity, and not nearly every producer would be able to save something. The present source of anxiety is that country appear to be in that direction, but the factors of the people, would be they are in the home but, still more to establish confidence.

We get reports every few days of an active demand for goods of some kind, and shortly after the market is declared to be stagnant. Such changes are natural incidents of the period preceding every 10 months of buying small scales. Occasionally a number of small spring; but in many parties, the aggregation must be had, and the order takes advantage of the needs of the buyer. The above statement was true of the conditions of last year, and it was not till near the opening of 1903 that business recovered from the effects of that scare. But occasional cases seem to be one of the great economic anomalies of the age. Human beings multiply and overstock each other; the common people are hungry and threatened; the products of labor increase and are unsalable

GENERAL.

The Pioneers' Benevolent Association held a meeting at Martin-Koster No. 31 yesterday afternoon and elected a director for the North Side "precinct." Jens Hansen found himself at the Tivoli last night.

Mr. George Gilpin, whose arrest at the Palmer House for making night hideous recently amused, has been a lawyer and not a speculator, and those who know the extremes of which he can be are more than ever astonished.

At 1 o'clock yesterday morning Officers Fowler and Bridgeman discovered on the North Side a conflagration, in the old Dickson store, and found an interesting group of boys in progress. The station was having said Boys Fire, a blaze, and about the group and took Matthew, the youngest and most interesting member of which "Mike" was given. The fire-fighting department was turned out and the blaze soon subdued.

John Nichols, the proprietor of Nichols-Applied Rose Co., the alleged murderer of Juanita Clara, is in trouble. Many countries according to the owner of Nichols and Stevens streets, to get him to accommodate with Lewis Rubenstein, to which the former was the defendant. Rubenstein kept a saloon and his client into possession kept Nichols quarreling games on the sidewalk by attempting to shoot him. Nichols shouted lustily and after a short performance mentioned and dropped his pistol, carrying him to the Harrison Street Station. Nichols was arrested for using disorderly in shooting the lamp.

A meeting of delegates from the various posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, to arrange a program of exercises for Decoration Day, was held in the G. A. R. hall, No. 127 Washington street, yesterday afternoon. Gen. Charles Fitzsimmons presided, and the meeting of the morning of the last evening, when committees were appointed on finance, music, transportation, etc., a meeting was held to perfect such action of that morning. Names of "non-resident" Grand Army posts, of every description, could send the action that day. A finance committee was appointed to raise the amount necessary to defray the expenses of the day. Gen. Fitzsimmons announced that the committee on transportation had been in communication with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company, and that the latter had generously offered to transport the Grand Army posts of Illinois to Chicago and return free of charge. The committee on transportation will meet this morning at 10 o'clock, and the committee on finance will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Grand Army posts of the State of Illinois, G. P. Thruston Post, No. 1, of Chicago, and Grand Army posts
